Shirley and Brandon.

Shirley and Brandon.

The only colonial homes of great note on James River that still remain in possession of the original families are Shirley and Brandon, the homes respectively of the Carters and Harrisons.

The Shirley estate was acquired by Colonel Edward Hill, Sr., about 1654, and became the property of his great-grand-daughter, Elizabeth Hill, who married John Carter, Secretary of the State of Virginia. I Since that time Shirley has been the home of the Carters.

Of course, a house, which has been so long the home of a family of wealth and taste, bears in and about it many reminders of its historic owners. In front of the house a lawn of matchless green extends to the river bank, and at the side is a quaint old-fashioned flower garden. In the house the panelled halls and rooms, the ancient portraits and the beautiful antique furniture might be said

WISE WORDS.

A physician of Portland, Oregan, has views about food. He says:

"I have always believed that the duty of the physician does not cease with treating the sick, but that we owe it to humanity to teach them how to protect their health, especially by hygienic and dietetic laws.

"With such a feeling as to my duty I take great pleasure in saying to the public that in my own experience, and also from personal observations, I have found no food to equal Grape-Nuts, and that I find there is almost no limit to the great benefit this food will bring when used in all cases of sicances and converseence.

"It is my experience that no physicial condition forbids the use of Grape-Nuts. To persons in health, there is nothing so nourishing and acceptable to the stomach, especially at breakfast, to start the machinery of the human system on the day's work. In cases of indigestion I know that a complete breakfast can be made of Grape-Nuts and cream, and I think it is necessary not to overload the stomach at the morning meal. I also know the great value of Grape-Nuts when the stomach is too weak to digest other food.

Chesapeake and Ohio, from 8 to 8:30 o'clock. This union picnic has become quite a fixed event with the Presiyterians, and for several years past has proven a most pleasant arrangement.

The popularity of the arrangement is shown by the fact that each summer it is the largest picnic crowd going out of Richmond. All or the members of the various Sunday schools go without cost to themselves, and tickets are sold to their friends and the public generally at almost nominal rates. Each ticket sold reduces in proportion the amount which the Sunday schools have to pay for the chartered trains and for that reason all friends are urged by the schools to so cept this opportunity to spend a day at the schools.
